

September 21, 2007

This is the best picture I've gotten of Bay (Buddy).

As you can see he is filling out nicely.

Our obedience instructor/trainer is more impressed with him every time we go for a lesson.

May 2007

The trip home was uneventful. Buddy has been introduced to his new backyard and house. He and Belina played outside together. He doesn't seem to mind his new crate.

Bay is enjoying his new home! Bay continues to be a joy around the house, he is even helping our mixed breed male watch the Walnut tree for squirrels.

Photos: We've been to PetSmart, the toy is a big hit! He seems to like red and orange toys. At this point, Bay has lost interest in the tree. Belina is not very concerned about the squirrel invasion

[Bay] and Belina are playing together. We gave [Bay] and Woody a chance to look at each other and sniff a little, but they are not ready to make nice yet. We've had a couple of small boundary issues, the top of the kitchen cabinet for instance, and he sure is interested in the fridge. He's very curious and likes to run up and down the stairs in the house. Ava says she just can't take her eyes off of him. They have really made up. He doesn't seem to mind sleeping in his crate, but he really wants to be where we are.

September 21, 2007

May 2007

